

ONLINE STD CASE SERIES

Now online at www.STDcases.org

by the National Network of STD/HIV Prevention Training Centers (NNPTC)

The STD Case Series is designed to provide continuing education for practitioners in primary health care, family medicine, emergency medicine and other specialties who provide care to persons with or at risk for sexually transmitted diseases. The first two cases in this series are now available online. Continuing education credits will be offered without a charge (CME, CNE, CEU). Each case includes a visually engaging, interactive patient presentation which simulates an actual clinic encounter. Users will be asked to take a sexual history, conduct a physical exam, order diagnostic tests, decide on treatment for patient and partner(s) and provide counseling to the patient on risk reduction and prevention strategies.

Each case was written and developed by leading experts in STD clinical care and prevention and includes links to current references, CDC treatment guidelines and other STD resources.
